

2014 ASHHRA Publication Author Submission Guidelines

Purpose of ASHHRA Publications

The American Society for Healthcare Human Resources Administration (ASHHRA) seeks to support the ASHHRA mission by offering members information and tools that are forward thinking and relevant to their roles as health care human resource (HR) professionals.

Subject areas of particular interest to health care HR professions include compensation, benefits, wellness, physician engagement, strategic planning, training, risk, recruitment, retention, labor relations, advocacy, management, succession planning, organization development, financial management, business development, workforce issues, diversity, immigration, community citizenship, and other health care HR-related topics.

ASHHRA publications are as follows:

- HR PULSE - quarterly submissions--strict limit of 1500 words (due by dates on page 4)
- e-News Brief - monthly submissions (due by first Wed. of every month)
- Diversity e-News Brief - bi-weekly submissions
- e-News Benefits and Wellness Brief- monthly submissions (due by second Wed. of every month)
- Position Papers - open submissions
- White papers - open submissions

Submission Process

Step 1: Complete the online Call for Articles

After completing the Call for Articles, please email ashhra@aha.org. You will be contacted.

Step 2: Submit the paper

Please observe the following guidelines in submitting your completed article:

- Manuscript must be no more than 1500 words in length (for HR Pulse)
- Manuscript must be submitted electronically, as a Microsoft Word document (not a PDF)
- Include contact information in the article: author's name, title, organization, location, and how author can be reached (This will be included at the end of the article.)
- Number the pages
- Include a brief biography (for ASHHRA information only).

Review Process

All manuscripts undergo a review process, and there is no guarantee that a submission will be published. During the review process, authors are obliged to refrain from submitting the article to other publications or distributing it in any other written format to others. This restriction does not prevent authors from having their articles reviewed by others prior to submitting their manuscripts. This single-publication restriction terminates upon notification that the article has been rejected for publication as an ASHHRA publication.

Acceptance Criteria

To be accepted, articles must meet at least the following criteria:

- They are appropriate to the subject matter and consistent with the ASHHRA mission and vision
- They cover subject topic substantively and must have health care HR related case studies or best practices
- They present new information or add a new slant to existing practices
- The information they contain is technically accurate
- They conform to the manuscript format set forth in these author guidelines.

All manuscripts accepted for a publication are subject to editing. Once accepted for publication, all articles become the property of ASHHRA and may not be reprinted or published elsewhere without the written permission of the author and ASHHRA.

Author Responsibilities

One important author responsibility is to observe deadlines. Because we must coordinate the articles of numerous authors and meet a strict printing schedule, it is essential to commit to and meet the deadlines assigned.

Other responsibilities for authors are as follows:

- Original articles must be submitted exclusively to ASHHRA for publication
- Your article may not contain advertising or marketing language
- You must supply the source of any material you quote.
